Silver Trophy Remains With Covina High

Massive Cup Offered in Peace Oratorical Contest Won for Third Time by Covina Representative—Competition Was With Largest Schools.

(Editor's note.—In 1911, Fred Chamberlen, son of Rev. and Mrs. George Chamberlen, won the Southern California peace oratorical contest, bringing the big silver trophy to Covina high school. In order to permanently retain this cup it was necessary to win it three times. Miss Marie Anderson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson, won the decision in 1913. On Friday evening of last week, Wilbur Nye, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Nye, again won it in competition with Riverside, Los Angeles Manual Arts, Santa Ana, Hemet, and San Fernando. His subject was "America's Opportunity," and he set forth that this country was morally obliged to become peace arbiter for the world—that this did not mean passive neutrality, but active assumption of the duty of bringing about international peace.)

BY JACK CLARKE, '15.
Last Friday evening Wilbur Nye won first place in the Southern California peace oratorical contest. This victory gives Covina permanent possession of a large cup, for which she has been struggling for five years. Wilbur's speech was great, and his victory well earned.

It is a fitting climax to a year of hard work, as he previously won first place in the Covina-Bonita, Covina-Citrus, and the junior-senior inter-class debates. We are very proud of the work Wilbur has done, and we expect great things from him next year.

His victory last week was no small achievement when you consider that he defeated such schools as Riverside, Manual Arts, Santa Ana, Hemet, and San Fernando.

The contest was of greater interest to Covina and San Fernando than other schools, as both these schools had a chance to keep the cup if they won it. The San Fernando representative put up a good fight, and while we did not think he should have been given first or second, we were surprised to hear that he was last.

A good crowd of rooters represented Covina, in spite of the bad weather, and all thoroughly enjoyed the contest. Under the leadership of Ralph Smith, the boys did some fine yelling, which had both the San Fernando and Manual Arts crowds backed off the map.

A great deal of the credit of winning three championships from the pick of the South in five years should be given to Vice-Principal Miss Effie Lemonds. It has been her careful and efficient coaching that has materially aided our representatives in the fine showing they have made in the past few years, and every member of the student body appreciates the work she has done.

Monday morning, in honor of the reappearance of the peace cup in our cabinet, we held one of the famous Covina rallies. Speeches were demanded from almost everybody, and all but one young lady, who was too frightened to stand, responded. The meeting was presided over by Ralph Smith, who showed great ability in getting speeches, even from the most bashful.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT ON COVINA LINE

Two people were killed and eighteen injured in a collision between a South Pacific electric car and a passenger car with engine at 11:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon near the gas works on the Covina line in Los Angeles. The accident resulted in the passenger car being crushed and the engine being mangled. The bodies of the two killed were not identified until late last night. There has been no news of Covina people being in the wreck.

FOLKS ARE ALL GOING TO SAWPIT CANYON.

Everything is in readiness for the annual picnic of the Covina Valley Farmers' Club, which will be held next Saturday, May 15, in Sawpit canyon, just north of Monrovia. The committee for the club has decided to extend a general invitation to every family in the valley, making it more of a general valley picnic than for any one organization. "You are invited," is the slogan of the day.

Sawpit canyon is one of the beautiful camping places of the mountains, to which the family can ride in an automobile in forty minutes from the Covina high school, where the morning assembly will be made at 10:30 o'clock.

Those who may not be able to get ready in time to go with the parade may follow the route by going straight up Citrus avenue to the Foothill boulevard through Azusa, Duarte, and turning north at the Catholic church, then west three blocks in Monrovia, turning north on Canyon Drive, proceeding straight into the canyon. There are pavilions, buildings and picnic grounds in what is known as Canyon Park, and Mayor H. J. Evans of Monrovia will deliver the welcoming speech.

The club will provide coffee, cream and sugar. Bring your machine filled with food for your folks. Further information may be had by conferring with the members of the committee, who are, Captain C. H. Wedgwood, Jerome Reynolds, Irwin Shupp, R. M. Douglass, and J. L. Matthews. It will be Covina day in the mountains.

Over 500 inches of water is running over the falls at Sawpit canyon—the ferns are waist high, and everything is green and inviting. Judge Harvey will deliver an address in the afternoon.

ANGRY CULL-BUYER SHOOT AT AUTOMOBILIST

Becoming inflamed with anger because an automobilist ran into the rear end of his cull wagon, and damaged it.

Backed house near Covina, Sunday from his seat with a rifle in his hand and fired several shots at H. Phillips, a real estate man of Los Angeles, who was driving the machine.

The fracas happened on Tuesday night near Baldwin Park. It was dark, and the cull man had no lights on his vehicle. According to the authorities, however, Sartaro had about ten minutes of leeway before falling under the ban of the law relating to lights on vehicles, which reads that lights must be shown an hour after sundown. Although it was very dark, the calendar for that date shows that the sun had set fifty minutes before the accident.

The encounter created excitement in Baldwin Park. It is said that the cull man turned his gun on the automobilist, who fled from his machine and dropped into a ditch. After shooting at Phillips, the cull man got into his wagon and drove to Baldwin Park and into the yard of a fellow countryman and friend. There he changed wagons and went on to Los Angeles.

The police of Los Angeles city have been searching for the man since Tuesday night. A close watch has been kept up at the fruit-stall where he disposes of his oranges. Constable J. J. Saunders of Covina spent several days in the city hunting for him. Yesterday Sartaro communicated with one of his friends from his hiding place, and intimated that he would give himself up and come to Covina for his arraignment before the justice of the peace.

IRRESPONSIBLE VANDALS BREAK CHOICE WINDOWS.

Some vandals who certainly have no respect for property have deliberately broken three of the windows of the Covina Presbyterian church. The work was done last week and the windows on the north side were broken by pieces of asphaltum that fell from the roof towards inside the pulpit.

SPIRIT OF OPTIMISM AND GENEROSITY IS PART OF SAN FRANCISCO'S EXPOSITION

BY J. L. MATTHEWS.

Of course, to describe the great San Francisco exposition would take many thousands of printed pages. My wife and myself have just spent ten days there, and we could have spent a month with pleasure, and have seen some new and beautiful striking exhibit every day.

From the practical standpoint, I believe the most surprising and most gratifying impression is that of attending a great exposition without being politely held up on every hand. The San Francisco people are not attempting to gouge the visitors by big prices. If another fair is held in the United States within the next ten years it will be obliged to pattern after San Francisco in this respect, as every visitor becomes a voluntary booster for the city and the fair, largely because prices are not unreasonable, and all business men and officials are courteous. One official said: "We would like to have these folks come here and live. Therefore we want to be hospitable."

Those who attended some other fairs in years past will remember unpleasantly that it seemed to be the one desire of every vender and hotel keeper to get all the money in sight. This is decidedly lacking in San Francisco. Good meals are to be secured at many places on the grounds for nominal rates. I think the Inside Inn, which, as its name implies, is on the fair grounds, is one of the most comfortable hostleries I ever patronized. It com-permanent residents in the next decade. Wonderful is that country that rolls through the Santa Clara valley, and lovely beyond compare the green hills that tower above the shimmering waters of the bay. The smaller cities around San Francisco are filled with interesting things to see. Not all people are allotted the chance to see, for instance, many thousands of peach and apricot trees in bloom, as is the case around San Jose and other cities of that north country.

And San Francisco has indubitably risen from the ashes of the fire of nine years ago. This fair is in reality an invitation to the people of the world to come and see what San Francisco has done in nine years. She was prostrated on that evil day when it seemed that it had become the funeral pyre of future hopes. She arose indomitable and cheerful, and built again, and those who visit the fair will see that she builded well. It is a pleasure to talk with these San Franciscans—to imbibe a bit of their optimism, their enthusiasm. A trip to the fair is worth all the money it costs if one received nothing but the optimism which is a part of every San Franciscan's life.

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition opened at San Francisco on February 20th last. It will continue till Dec. 4, 1915. Two hundred and forty-three thousand persons attended the opening within the exposition grounds, establishing a world's record for open-

Opening Day at Panama-Pacific Exposition Broke All Exposition Attendance Records

Attendance records for exposition openings in San Francisco history were broken on Feb. 20. Vast crowds thronged the grounds when President Wilson presided at the button in Washington, and each day since the attendance has been enormous. The huge buildings and beautiful thoroughfares hummed with activity and have continued to do so. The exposition has already demonstrated at this early date that it will be a great success in every way.

dates very favorably with any fine hotel the world over, and here again, the rates are very reasonable. For a stay of ten days, one person can see the fair and do it well on an expenditure of $75.

Visitors to the fair must remember to take plenty of wraps, as the city is not heated in winter, sunlight is in Los Angeles in summer months. Furs and heavy coats are not at all out of place up there, this year, around the local winds come in through the Golden Gate in the afternoon, and there is often a heavy fog.

The striking features of the fair are the harmonious and almost magically beautiful arrangement of the buildings. No American fair of the past can possibly compare with it in beauty. The South American countries are represented with buildings that are unique and create a new section of the exposition in its own right. The architecture is of the most modern and the work of the world's best architects. The buildings are not only beautiful but they are also functional. The Palace of Education is a masterpiece of modern architecture, and the Palace of Liberal Arts is a masterpiece of modern architecture. The Tower of Jewels is a masterpiece of modern architecture. The fair is a masterpiece of modern architecture.

And the success thus ushered in has continued with millions thronging to the Golden Gate. No visitor has left disappointed. The statement was frequently made during the period before the exposition opened that such features as the color scheme of the exposition and the night illuminations could not be adequately described. That sounded like a brash statement. But visitors here find that it is literally true. Distinguished guests from all parts of the world have been unanimous in declaring that the exposition exceeds the most enthusiastic anticipations of the world's best visitors. The exposition is a masterpiece of modern architecture. The buildings are not only beautiful but they are also functional. The Palace of Education is a masterpiece of modern architecture, and the Palace of Liberal Arts is a masterpiece of modern architecture. The Tower of Jewels is a masterpiece of modern architecture. The fair is a masterpiece of modern architecture.

Pomona Meeting Is Largest of the Year

Men From Every Community in Eastern Part of County Gather at Banquet Table—Judge Wood Talks on Superior Court Matters.

At the head of the table reserved for speakers and officers, a vacant chair draped in black was the mute recognition of the death of President Frank W. Balfour of the Associated Chambers of Commerce when that body convened at Pomona last Tuesday evening. It was the heaviest attendance of any of the meetings, 22 men being seated at the tables.

The banquet was served in the Episcopal Guild hall, and consisted of chicken a la casserole, with all the asides and amendments that go with a delectable feed. The toastmaster of the evening was Vice-President Herbert J. Evans, mayor of Monrovia. Out of respect to the memory of Mr. Balfour all business was postponed until the next meeting, which will be held in Puente.

An exceptionally good musical program was rendered by Mrs. C. A. Spence, pianist; Miss Kent, Miss Bangert, violin; Mr. Talbot, cornet; William Kreiser, clarinet. During the evening a male quartet composed of Jesse Edmonds, E. H. Genung, Clarence Verity and R. C. Hill sang a number of pleasing selections.

The chief speaker of the evening was Presiding Judge Wood of the Los Angeles superior court. Judge Wood proved that he had something of importance to say, and he spoke fearlessly of reforms that should be brought about in methods of procedure in the courts and matters pertaining to the Los Angeles bar. He said that half the cases in the superior courts would never be brought there if the members of the bar were of a higher order.

A significant matter broached by Judge Wood was that of the possible institution of a circuit court which would take care of all civil cases involving from $300 to $1000 in property. This court would sit in various communities where the cases originated, and its jurisdiction would probably unite five or six townships. This would quickly relieve the congestion of the superior courts in Los Angeles.

Judge Wood said that the present system of handling superior court cases in Los Angeles county is much more efficient than was the case ten years ago. He believed that the efficiency had increased one hundred per cent. This has been because of a careful study given to the system, and many cases are now handled in a few minutes that would often take up the time of the court for a day.

There were a number of Pomona business men who gave short talks, and the meeting was thrown open to general discussion. Pomona proved to be alive to the strength of the Associated Chambers and its business men complimented the body on the work accomplished.

The meeting in Puente in June will be a large one. This is now being arranged for by the Puente Chamber of Commerce, and will be held in Masonic hall. The plan at the present time is to have the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church serve the banquet.

A list of resolutions on the death of Mr. Balfour were read and adopted as follows:

Anaheim Teacher Is New Principal

Ben S. Millikan Chosen by Board of Trustees to act as Head of Puente High School—New District Will Have Forty Pupils.

The Puente high school board of trustees has selected Prof. Ben S. Millikan of Anaheim as the principal who will have full charge of the school work when the fall term opens.

There were a number of applicants, but it is considered that Prof. Millikan's splendid reputation in school work placed him most favorably at the head of the list.

The new principal will move to Puente shortly, and will take up the task of becoming acquainted with every family in the valley. He says that he will make a personal call on every one, for the purpose of discovering where the children are going to school, and whether the scholars may be obtained for the newly-formed district. Some of the children in the valley that live in Spadra and Walnut are attending the Pomona high school, while children in the other part of the valley are attending Montebello high school. About a dozen are in the Covina high school. It is hoped that the new district will obtain all these scholars. It is said that there are forty available pupils.

It will be a matter of pride to the valley when the new school building is completed. It will be one of the finest high school structures in any of the communities of Southern California, and equipped in the most modern fashion.—Puente Journal.

FRUIT CAKE

A SIMPLE RECIPE THAT IS PROVING IMMENSELY POPULAR

One of the most favored desserts in general use is Fruit Cake. Yet very few are able to make as satisfactory fruit cake as they would like. This is probably due in many cases to some fault in the recipe, although a little change in some of the ingredients used often produces surprising results. For instance, most recipes for Fruit Cake call for the use of molasses to a greater or less extent. It has been found, however, that a much better cake can be made by using Karo Syrup instead. The next time you bake, try the following recipe for Fruit Cake, which has become the favorite with thousands of good cooks: 1 cup brown sugar; 1 cup butter; 1 cup milk; 2 cups Karo Syrup; 1 tablespoon each cinnamon and cloves; grated nutmeg; 4 eggs; 4½ cups flour; ½ cup Kingsford's Cornstarch; 3 teaspoons baking powder; 1 cup each raisins and currants, well floured.

Beat the butter, sugar and Karo to a cream. Add the eggs, well beaten, the milk alternately with the dry ingredients sifted together. Turn in fruit last. Bake in a very moderate oven one hour. The Karo Syrup and Kingsford's Cornstarch can be found at all good grocers.

WHITTIER TELEPHONE SYSTEM UNDERGROUND.

Prior to work to be started soon by the city of Whittier, the Whittier Telephone Company has commenced operations on West Philadelphia street from Pickering to Painter avenues, a distance of eight blocks.

The company is laying conduits which will take care of all phone service on this street from Pickering avenue to the office, at the corner of Philadelphia street and Bright avenue, the city beautiful idea being enhanced as a result.

It is an admitted economic fact that there can be no permanent prosperity without a permanent agriculture.

CHICAGO CITRUS MARKET.

Prices High and Trade Good—Lemons Show Activity.

Chicago, April 30.—Trade was again good on oranges this week and prices remained high, although the market was not quite as firm as before. The general situation remained about the same as last week, with receipts small and demand satisfactory. The top price as a rule for navel in carload lots was $2.75, although a few extra fancy cars brought $2.85. Florida Valencias were jobbed in a small way at $2.50@3 per box.

The lemon market again showed an upward tendency this week and the situation was very firm. Prices showed a material advance over last week, and carload lots were quoted at $2.75@3 per box. Arrivals were showing somewhat better quality and there was not as much decay present as there has been. The situation was practically unchanged on Florida grapefruit, and demand was quiet. Good carlots were worth $1.75@2 per box, but much of the fruit was soft and brought considerably lower prices.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF WAR

At a peace forum banquet in Baltimore, Professor L. C. Courtney, the well-known authority on psychology, said:

"War psychology shows us—hid the truth as we will—that every soldier, in the long run, avoids danger, and, the more authority a soldier has, the higher his rank, the more he uses this rank and this authority to save his own skin."

"Studying war psychology on the other side of the herring pond, I met a certain officer. No use telling his nationality, for all nationalities in this regard are the same. Anyhow, narrating his adventures, this officer said to me:

"The enemy raked us from the front and both sides; an enflaming fire. Talk about decimated! Why, we lost seventy per cent of our effective. There was no shelter at all except one little rock. Hundreds fell on every side, but I, as by a miracle, escaped without a scratch."

"As by a miracle, eh?" I remarked drily. "And if there'd been more rock there'd have been more miracle, and then some of your men might have escaped, too—eh what, captain?"

SIX COVINA PEOPLE MAROONED IN BLIZZARD AT LITTLE BEAR LAKE--FIGHT WAY IN SNOW

While their neighbors and friends in the valley were picking thousands of roses to decorate fiesta floats, six Covina people were fighting their way through fourteen miles of snow two feet deep on the trail out of Bear Valley. These people tell one of the most remarkable stories that has ever come out of the Sierra Madre mountains. They went from a land of orange blossoms and sunshine into a howling blizzard in the expiration of but a few hours, and they were marooned on the edge of Little Bear Lake for four days, with the tents half buried in snow. Not one of them was injured or made sick by the experience, and the woman who tells the story intimates that it was all great fun. Bear valley is over the range above San Bernardino. Here is the story of this remarkable trip:

(BY MRS. S. S. ASCHENBRENNER.)

After being snow-bound for four days at Little Bear lake, a fishing party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Overholzer, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lund, and Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner, returned Tuesday night about 7:30 o'clock.

We left Covina at ten in the morning last Friday, and found it raining just beyond San Bernardino, but it seemed to be only a shower, and by the time we had eaten lunch at the toll-house it had cleared, so we proceeded, and by the time we had reached the part of the grade called "switch-back," it began to snow. It continued to snow all the way up to the crest, but on account of the lateness of the season it did not seem possible that the snow would last long, although we met several machines coming out.

When our party reached the camping place at Little Bear lake, about two miles beyond "Blue Jay Camp," we found about eight inches of snow. We pitched camp, and in a very short time had a tent up large enough to hold three beds. Then we stretched a large canvas between the trees in front of the tent and put one machine on each side. Another canvas made a cover above the stove. There was plenty of good dry pine wood full of pitch, so it did not take long to get a good hot fire going. Everything was in ship-shape before night fell. We had cots and mattresses and lots of blankets and kept warm and comfortable in the tent.

Friday night it snowed all night, and in the morning when the sun came out (for a few moments) it was the most beautiful sight to see those evergreen trees all covered with snow, and the snow all around on the level was a foot deep.

The men went fishing from 5:30 to 8 a.m., and when they returned to camp for breakfast had caught seventeen fine big salmon trout. After breakfast was over and the camp work done we all went fishing. We had five poles and lines and a dip-net for the sixth person. At the lake we built a big bon-fire, and although it snowed and sleeted, and the wind blew all day, we fished until about 4:30 o'clock, and found we had caught sixty-two fine salmon trout, ranging in length from ten to fourteen inches. Mr. Lund landed the largest fish of all, and it measured exactly fifteen inches.

Saturday night it snowed, and Sunday we spent in camp telling stories around the camp fire and reading, and we had a gentleman from Colton, who was alone and camped near us, over for a big fish dinner with us and he brought us some books and magazines to read. We had a prestolite tank with gas burner attached to furnish a light, and could carry it in and out of the tent as we wished. It made a fine light to read by Sunday night.

Monday morning the snow had settled down and it was sixteen inches deep on the level all around camp, and these were fifteen inches of snow on top of the auto tops. In the night when anyone woke up we would bump the top of the tent to shake off the snow. It was very warm in the tent because the snow was clear up to the top of the wall and packed in tight.

Monday we went to the lake again and fished from about 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and caught seventy-two big salmon trout and one brook trout.

We ladies had just as good luck as the men did, and it was the greatest sport to reel in those big lovely fish. Some of them would whirl round and round and fight so long before they would give up, while others would lead right in. Three times we landed two at a time on one line.

Tuesday morning we decided that we must try and get home, because we had left the little folks with their grand-parents, and we knew they would be worried about us. The men got up at 5 o'clock and went fishing. They returned to camp at 8 o'clock for breakfast and had twenty fine big fish.

We decided to bring out only one machine and leave all the camp outfit, supplies, etc., until the snow thawed. Mr. Aschenbrenner got his machine ready to bring us ladies out, and the other boys were to go as far as necessary and then return to camp.

For two miles we had to break track and would only go a few feet at a time because the snow would pile up in front of the car clear to the top of the radiator, then they would have to shovel a place clear and back up a little and make another run for it. In this manner we managed to make two miles or so as far as "Blue Jay Camp." At this place two other machines had just gone out, and the track being broken, we soon overtook them. The man all shoveled and everyone pushed and we got within about a quarter of a mile of the top of the long "Dobbin's" grade when the chains on the head car (a Cadillac roadster) were clear out and the wheels would not take hold at all. They were able to get a little team of mules to pull them up the balance of the grade to Strawberry Flat.

The old Scotchman who lives at that place invited us into his cabin and had a good hot fire, so we could get warm. One young lady from the other party walked all the way to the flat through that deep snow, and had no rubbers on. She was at the cabin when the rest of us arrived. There were four ladies in those two machines. On the other side of the summit it snowed hard, and all this side, and the rest of the way home it just poured down rain.

We had wrapped sacks around our shoes and sewed them on like leggings, so it was not hard walking in the snow, although it was fully two feet deep near the top of the "Dobbin's" grade.

From Strawberry Flat we came on without any trouble to "Squirrel Inn," where the stage was just coming out. As soon as possible he passed us and broke a fine track all the rest of the way.

As we came down the mountain the snow was thawing rapidly, but there was snow clear down almost to the toll house at the foot of the canyon. We came through fourteen miles of snow in all, seven miles of which we had to work every bit of the way.

We felt the cold more after reaching San Bernardino than we did in the mountains where the snow was.

Mr. Overholzer and Mr. Lund came clear to San Bernardino with us and would stay there all night and get some dry clothes and provisions and return next morning on the stage and walk on into camp from Squirrel Inn. They will not attempt to come out until the snow melts so they can bring out the trailer and all the camp outfit.

The two little Ford cars made the trip without any trouble at all.

We had the most glorious time, and would have stayed right there and enjoyed it if it had not been for the little ones and causing the folks at home to worry.

We brought out all the fish we were allowed for five persons, twenty to each, and have been able to remember the relatives and a good many of our friends who will, I'm sure, testify to the truth of this story so that it will not be considered a mere "fish story."

CALIFORNIA CANNED FRUIT.

No Advance in Minimum Weights by the Southern Pacific.

San Francisco, April 30.—Business in canned fruit lines continues rather quiet. Spot goods are moving rather slowly. Because of the uncertainty of the outlook for canned goods, no great amount of interest is being shown in futures. However, asparagus has met with good sale and the demand continues good.

Announcement has been made by the Southern Pacific that there will be no advance in the minimum weight a car on canned goods for eastern markets. The minimum will remain at 40,000 pounds and the carload charge is based on this amount. The Interstate Commerce Commission gave permission to increase the weight, but there were numerous requests from the trade that the minimum be not raised and the company has decided to let it remain as before.

The Riverside Canning Company is erecting a plant in that city, which it hopes to have in readiness for the opening of the apricot season, the middle of June. The plant will have a capacity of 1,500 cars a day at first, but same will be increased, as the occasion demands. Apricots, peaches and tomatoes will be handled the first year.

The Pacific Pea Packing Company, of Oakdale, report that its crop of peas to be in good shape, and with favorable weather for the next few days, the peas will be ready for packing. Operations will begin some time next week.

San Gabriel canyon fishing is reported good this year. Get your fishing tackle at Henry-Hall Hardware House.

TELEPHONE NO. 3

The Rainfall For Ten Years.

The record of rainfall from 1906 to 1915 in the Covina valley has been compiled by Captain N. D. Mussey. The rain gauge at his ranch does not always exactly agree with measurements in other portions of the valley, for the reason that the rainfall varies in the Covina valley, even when the gauges are but a mile or two apart. Captain Mussey's figures, however, are good for the general average in the valley. The peculiar weather of this year gives the month of May more rainfall than any corresponding month in the past ten years. The figures follow:

	March	April	May	June	Aug.	Total
1906	8.25	1.74	1.48			20.13
1907	4.94	.33				26.93
1908	.55	.80	.25			14.71
1909	2.50			.20		19.77
1910	2.36	.37				15.49
1911	5.24	.61	.33			20.02
1912	7.50	2.80	.12		.07	12.87
1913	.37		.09	.35	.07	11.82
1914	.86	1.57	.21	.26		26.76
1915	1.30	1.33	1.02 to May 5			22.23

We Should Not Betray the Poor.

Public speakers occasionally break out with imaginary and glowing figures concerning the alleged number of emigrants who will swarm to these shores after the great war. Better far would it be to consider the fact of sending many we already have here to their native countries, there to assist in rehabilitation of those lands. The world is going to see a shortage of able-bodied men.

And why should the Pacific coast look eagerly forward to the prospect of thousands of penniless laborers landing on our shores, to become mainly dependents, and at best to become good citizens only through a painful process of years? If there is any place in the United States where a great number of laborers are not needed and will not be needed for years, it is California, for here there must be a huge acquisition of capital before anything definite can be done. There are millions of acres of land in California utterly worthless at present. To talk of putting ignorant emigrants on these lands is the folly of ignorance, and to actually perform such an act would be a crime against the people of the world.

These great stretches of desert will some day be incredibly productive, but it is not the poor man who will pioneer on them. A limited number of these old-world people can be taken care of here, as has always been the case. But we are inclined to think that when war has scourged those European countries until their appetite for fighting and killing has turned to nausea, there will be profitable work for all the peoples in their own lands.

The Death Figures Are Mounting.

The elimination of many of the grade crossings must be one of the serious considerations of the authorities in this state. It should especially be a matter of grave consideration for Los Angeles county. All crossings cannot be done away with, but crossings at intersections with the main-travelled boulevards should be given attention, for our record in killed and maimed is appalling.

Outside of Los Angeles city the boulevards run through many miles of citrus and walnut orchards—dense foliage that completely shuts off the view. Many of the most dangerous crossings are those where every perspective is blotted by trees. Added to this, is the fact that much of this coastal plain of Southern California is almost level, or with a gradual slope to the sea. There are no elevations of consequence where street cars and trains may be located. The accidents at crossings occur often when neither train-men or automobile driver can be blamed. The flying interurban train seems to come out of the air, and the automobile driver has very little opportunity to think and act with intelligence.

The making of tunnels beneath these crossings is not as expensive a work as in most countries. It is a question of excavation and concrete. Besides the making of the boulevards safe at these crossings, the storm-water is allowed better progress in winter. Railroad embankments cause much trouble in holding back the floods in the orchard districts, causing bad washing in the groves.

The accident at Lynwood, when five lives were blotted out, is fresh in our memory. But these accidents have occurred all too frequently. It is a bad advertisement for this land of fine boulevards. The ever-present danger from these crossings mars the pleasure of every automobile party. The county and the railroad companies should take this matter up with the serious intention of doing something within the coming year. It is a more urgent work than flood control. We should not invite people to Southern California to be killed.

Looking Askance at Their Handiwork.

Creating jobs for the unemployed is the last resort of an incompetent government. It is a method of relief similar to the issuance of the fifty-year bond—it places the onus on a future people with the mild hope that they may be more thrifty and be able to pay.

President Wilson is being importuned to begin the building of many national highways that the unemployed may work. In a long string of "whereases," a committee of which Amos Pinchot is president has set forth the necessity of such action. Emergency methods such as these may be a necessity, just as it is necessary for a man to be medically treated after a prolonged debauch. But if the Pinchots and their kind had not become drunk with the desire for wrecking, we would be prosperous today, and too busy to write resolutions to the president—a Republican president.

If a little joke with a vulgar tinge to it happens to get shoved into the corner of a country weekly occasionally, for the reason that everything is not minutely scanned in that time of suffering the pangs of going to press—if it gets by and is a trifle suggestive, then some fastidious person will speak about it. Somebody's taste is always offended. But those same subscribers take the Los Angeles papers, and it is reasonable to suppose that they read every line of testimony like that of the Sebastian case. This exasperating trait of human nature has often puzzled us, and that's why we have spoken about it several times.

The long period of cloudy and rainy weather in Southern California during April and the present month, has been very depressing to many, and the number of people who have colds is remarkable. It is harder for the Southern Californian to reconcile himself to such weather than for people of less-favored lands. There is some truth in the saying that when a little cloud appears in the sky the Southern Californian begins to grumble. He has come to believe that perfect weather is justly due him. But a little cloudy weather won't kill many of us, and it certainly has been a fine season for the orchards, the grain and the gardens.

Glendora is getting ready to vote bonds for an automobile fire apparatus, and while the notices were being printed in the local paper, two houses burned down in that day. It was unfortunate for the owners of the houses, but an object lesson to the people in general.

When the county built that boulevard from Covina to Puente across the valley, it couldn't have been thought that it would be subjected to the traffic that has been the case. This link between the two main boulevards is very heavily travelled, and it already is showing it in spots. It needs some patching before it gets worse.

Out of respect to Frank W. Balfour, who died while president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, that body decided to continue the office of president vacant until the annual meeting in July. The organization adopted resolutions that showed the respect in which he was held.

Many believe that the charges made against Chief of Police Sebastian of Los Angeles were simply trumped up to kill his chances politically. At all events, he won two to one at the primaries this week. Los Angeles is sometimes funny and sometimes tragic. But all the time there some kind of odorous quarrel is going on.

Educators and school men in California say that Puente has made a good selection in securing Ben S. Millikan as principal of the new Puente high school. Mr. Millikan has the reputation of a very hard worker. Already he has said that he will make a house to house canvass of the families to ascertain how they stand on the school question. There are some scholars now attending Montebello high school and some going to Pomona schools that might be induced to come into the new Puente district.

It was a blue day in Pomona on Tuesday. Chief of Police Tracy, who had been one of the best officers the city ever had, lay dead as the result of a motorcycle accident. Green, another citizen, was painfully injured the same day. Besides these accidents a family of five was wiped out in an automobile accident. And in the evening the Pomona citizens gathered to pay tribute to the memory of one of their leading citizens, Frank Balfour, who died recently. Pomona is a hustling, optimistic, cheerful town. But it certainly has been hit rather hard lately.

PAYNE-THOMPSON NUPTIALS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Warner on Monday evening, April 26, when Miss Elizabeth Thompson was united in marriage to Mr. Perry S. Payne of Monrovia. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Harry White of Pomona. The couple, standing under a bower of greenery and roses, were attended by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Warner, little Dorothy Warner acting as flower girl and carrying a bouquet of forget-me-nots and moss roses. Master Donald Warner played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

Mr. Payne was formerly a resident of Covina and has a number of friends here. Both he and the bride are intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Warner. A 6 o'clock dinner was served to the guests and the bride party at the Warner home.

The Ant Nuisance

NO NEED TO SUFFER LONGER FROM THIS ANNOYANCE

Many a woman suffering from a house overrun with ants will learn with intense relief that a remedy has been discovered that will not only rid a house but will do it almost instantly.

This remedy was originated by a baker in Los Angeles who was almost driven out of business by ants overrunning his establishment. After long experimenting he devised a paste which appears to have almost supernatural powers as far as ants are concerned. It required only one day for him to rid his shop completely of the pest.

So efficacious did it prove that it has been put up for general use under the name of Kellogg's Ant Paste, and placed on sale by all good druggists. Failure is impossible with this remedy.

Try a package today and your ant troubles will be a thing of the past; but be sure it's Kellogg's.

A Strong Argument

PAYMENT BY CHECK is simply a precaution by which you insure yourself against loss of money, inconvenience in making change, and the possibility of being short-changed or receiving counterfeit money.

You are absolutely protected against a second payment of the same bill, for the cancelled check, bearing the creditor's signature, constitutes the very best kind of a receipt. These facts appeal to intelligent people.

Personal Expression Day For Local Club.

One of the most pleasant and profitable of the Monday Afternoon Club meetings was the home talent program which was given last Monday at the regular meeting of the club. Mrs. J. J. Morgan led the informal discussion of "The Welfare of the Child." She asked Mrs. F. B. Gillett to answer the question, "Is there a lack of a common center of home interest?" Mrs. Gillett made a very earnest plea for such a center and spoke also of the neighborhood interest. "If you do not teach your child to be cleanly, home-loving and obedient, it is much more difficult for me to teach my child these things." Thus she brought out the cooperation of neighborhood as well as home.

Mrs. David Watson had for her subject, "The Increasing Popularity of Amusement Outside of the Home," a fact which Mrs. Watson did not deny, but rather gave much credit to school sports, neighborhood games in which more than a few children take part, and to athletics both for boy and girl. The tomboy is the sort of girl who is quite likely to develop into the most delightful woman and the girlhood should be prolonged more than is now the tendency.

Mrs. E. P. Warner spoke concerning the desire for entertainment rather than for effort in school, home and church societies. She made a plea for a more medium course in this regard. She said in part: "I am not an extremist, but I believe there is some danger of harm to the spiritual and intellectual life of the child when he feels that wherever he goes there must be 'something doing.'"

Taking up the other side of the question, Mrs. C. W. Coman stated her opinion that there could be scarcely too much done for children of all ages in the way of amusement and entertainment if these were of the right sort.

Mrs. W. W. Nash spoke on the lack of emphasis upon character-training, and Mrs. W. G. Monroe read a paper upon the prevailing emphasis upon training for commercial success and social prestige. Then Mrs. F. O. Frazier closed this part of the discussion with an interesting talk concerning "the desire to live according to a pace established by neighbors rather than by the possibilities of one's own home." In speaking on this subject Mrs. Frazier took the rather unexpected stand that in these days it is a woman's duty to establish and maintain her social position against competition. She proved her point with logic.

As a capital climax to these excellent talks, Miss Elliott of the domestic science department in our public schools gave a charming resume of the things she hoped to do and of the things she was actually doing to train our daughters to be not only intelligent leaders but good home-keepers as well.

Children Impersonate Foreign Nations.

While the rainy afternoon kept many of the white-ribboners from coming to the regular meeting of the local W. C. T. U. last Friday afternoon, there were a good number at the Presbyterian church to hear the reports from the county convention. Since there had been delegates present at all the meetings of the convention, a connected report, both interesting and instructive, could be given. Many incidents and occurrences of the large gathering, with its addresses, special music, reports of the year's work and making plans for the new, were recounted for the benefit of those who could not be present.

One very attractive feature called "Through the Panama Canal" was described in detail, since the thirty-five children taking part in the march and drill were actually foreign children now living in Los Angeles, each one dressed in native costume and carrying a tiny flag of his own country in the left hand, while in the right waved "Old Glory." All marched onto the platform, giving some fact about their country, then all gave the oath of allegiance to our flag.

True to the different personality of the narrators, the reports varied according to the special interests of each, so that the resultant report as a whole was broad in its scope and fascinating in its variety. The vivid impression left after it was all given, was of a strong, efficient womanly force, exerted through the W. C. T. U. to make the country better and cleaner; a place where it would be easy to do right and hard to do wrong.

Los Angeles, had been secured. But the rains descended and it poured just before the hour announced for the meeting, so that the audience was small. However, those who did brave the rain were well repaid, since the address was of special value and interest. Mrs. Jenkins, who is a widely known speaker and worker for peace, gave not only the story of events leading up to this, the most terrible of wars, but massed an appalling array of facts to prove that war is unwise, unnecessary and wholly and always degenerating in its effects. Her vivid word pictures of war conditions and results gave a new realization of the horrors, sufferings and demoralization of war.

The speaker felt that the neutral nations looked to United States to lead them in some action which should ultimately bring about a permanent and international peace, and urged the immediate formation of a world's peace army, which all loving and desiring peace, could join, without money or fee, pledging only influence against war as a means of settling human differences. Its aim is to mould public sentiment and educate all peoples everywhere toward universal peace.

It is the hope of the W. C. T. U. to secure Mrs. Jenkins at some later date, when a pleasant day will bring out a larger audience to hear her strong plea for "Peace on earth, good-will to men."

Science of Government To Be Discussed.

Next Friday afternoon, the 14th, the members and friends of the Covina W. C. T. U. are invited to meet with Mrs. C. S. Beardsley and Mrs. Ames at their home, 327 East Badillo street. Following the business, a lesson in science of government will be given by Mrs. Lina Price, after which a social hour will be enjoyed.

In place of the May "school afternoon," all the patrons of the schools, particularly the fathers, are cordially invited to attend "an evening" at the high school next Thursday, from 7:30 to 10. The annual exhibit of the work of the pupils in manual training, household economics and drawing will make up a large share of the attraction of the occasion, although there will be a short program. Music for the evening will be provided by the pupils of Prof. R. W. Groom, while the address will be by Dr. John T. Miller of Los Angeles, a vocational expert and educational leader. The affair is in the joint charge of the special teachers and the "school afternoon" people, and it is hoped that there will be a large audience. The program arranged has purposely been short, in order that there will be an abundance of time for neighborly greetings and for the inspection of the exhibit. Everybody welcome.

MRS. JOHN A. SANBORN DIES FROM OPERATION.

The unexpected death of Mrs. John A. Sanborn at the home just off Vincent street, last Friday night, has removed one of the beautiful Christian women from the valley. Mrs. Sanborn had been taken to the Pomona hospital, where she was operated upon for an abdominal trouble. She did not rally from the operation.

The funeral was held on Monday at the home, conducted by Rev. S. J. McConnell of the Covina First Methodist church. Appropriate vocal numbers were rendered by Mrs. Andrew McAllen and Mrs. S. F. Jones. The body was laid at rest in Oakdale cemetery.

Emma Jane Rubendall was born near Freeport, Illinois, in March, 1857. On June 7, 1881, she was united in marriage to John A. Sanborn. To this union was born three children, a son and two daughters. The little son at about five years of age went home to heaven. The daughter, Ethel, has been the mother's companion in the household affairs. Edith, the younger daughter, is engaged as instructor in the public schools at Alpaugh. These daughters, with the sorrowing father and other near relatives, mourn the departure of this excellent woman. The deceased has been a member of the Methodist church since girlhood. Undemonstrative, thoughtful of others, and forgetful of self, she has lived a Christian life these many years. She thought much of home, the comfort of her friends and those who depended upon her. But her love for the home fireside did not deter her from showing kindness to others who were in distress. In neighborhood sickness, when needed, she never failed to show her kindly nature in a quiet, unobtrusive manner, but with much sympathy and motherly attention that made those feel, who were in need of her ministrations, that what she did was prompted by a Christ-like spirit. It fell to her lot as one of the older members of her mother's family to give her girlhood to the assistance of her mother in the rearing of her brothers and sisters. Two of her brothers came into her home after her marriage, and for many years she was a mother to them, giving them the same attention and affection which she bestowed upon her own children. She was the daughter of a soldier father and an heroic mother.

Mr. Sanborn and his family moved to California in 1908 and a year later came to Covina, where they have since lived. During the present pastorate the family transferred their membership from the East to the First Methodist church of this place. The sudden death was a surprise and shock to her friends, but it is thought that her passing away was not unexpected to her. She seemed to realize her condition and the possible nearness to the unseen world. She was prepared to go, or stay for like the great writer to the Christians at Rome, she could say, "Whether we live therefore or die, we are the Lord's."

The family, who have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends, greatly appreciate the kindness shown in gentle ministrations, gifts of beautiful flowers and tender sympathy expressed in many ways.

ROSELANDS IS WONDERFUL IN BIG FLORAL PARADE.

With 27,000 rose-buds completely enveloping his eight-cylinder Cadillac automobile, George W. Griffiths of Roselands ranch created a sensation in the monster floral parade in Los Angeles on Monday. It was the work of many hours to make this wonderful creation, and it fittingly represented the Covina valley with the impression that this is the best-loved home of roses.

Across the length of the machine the word "Roselands" was prominent. The owner of this big forty-acre ranch of Valencia oranges was especially commended in newspaper articles and by the judges of the parade.

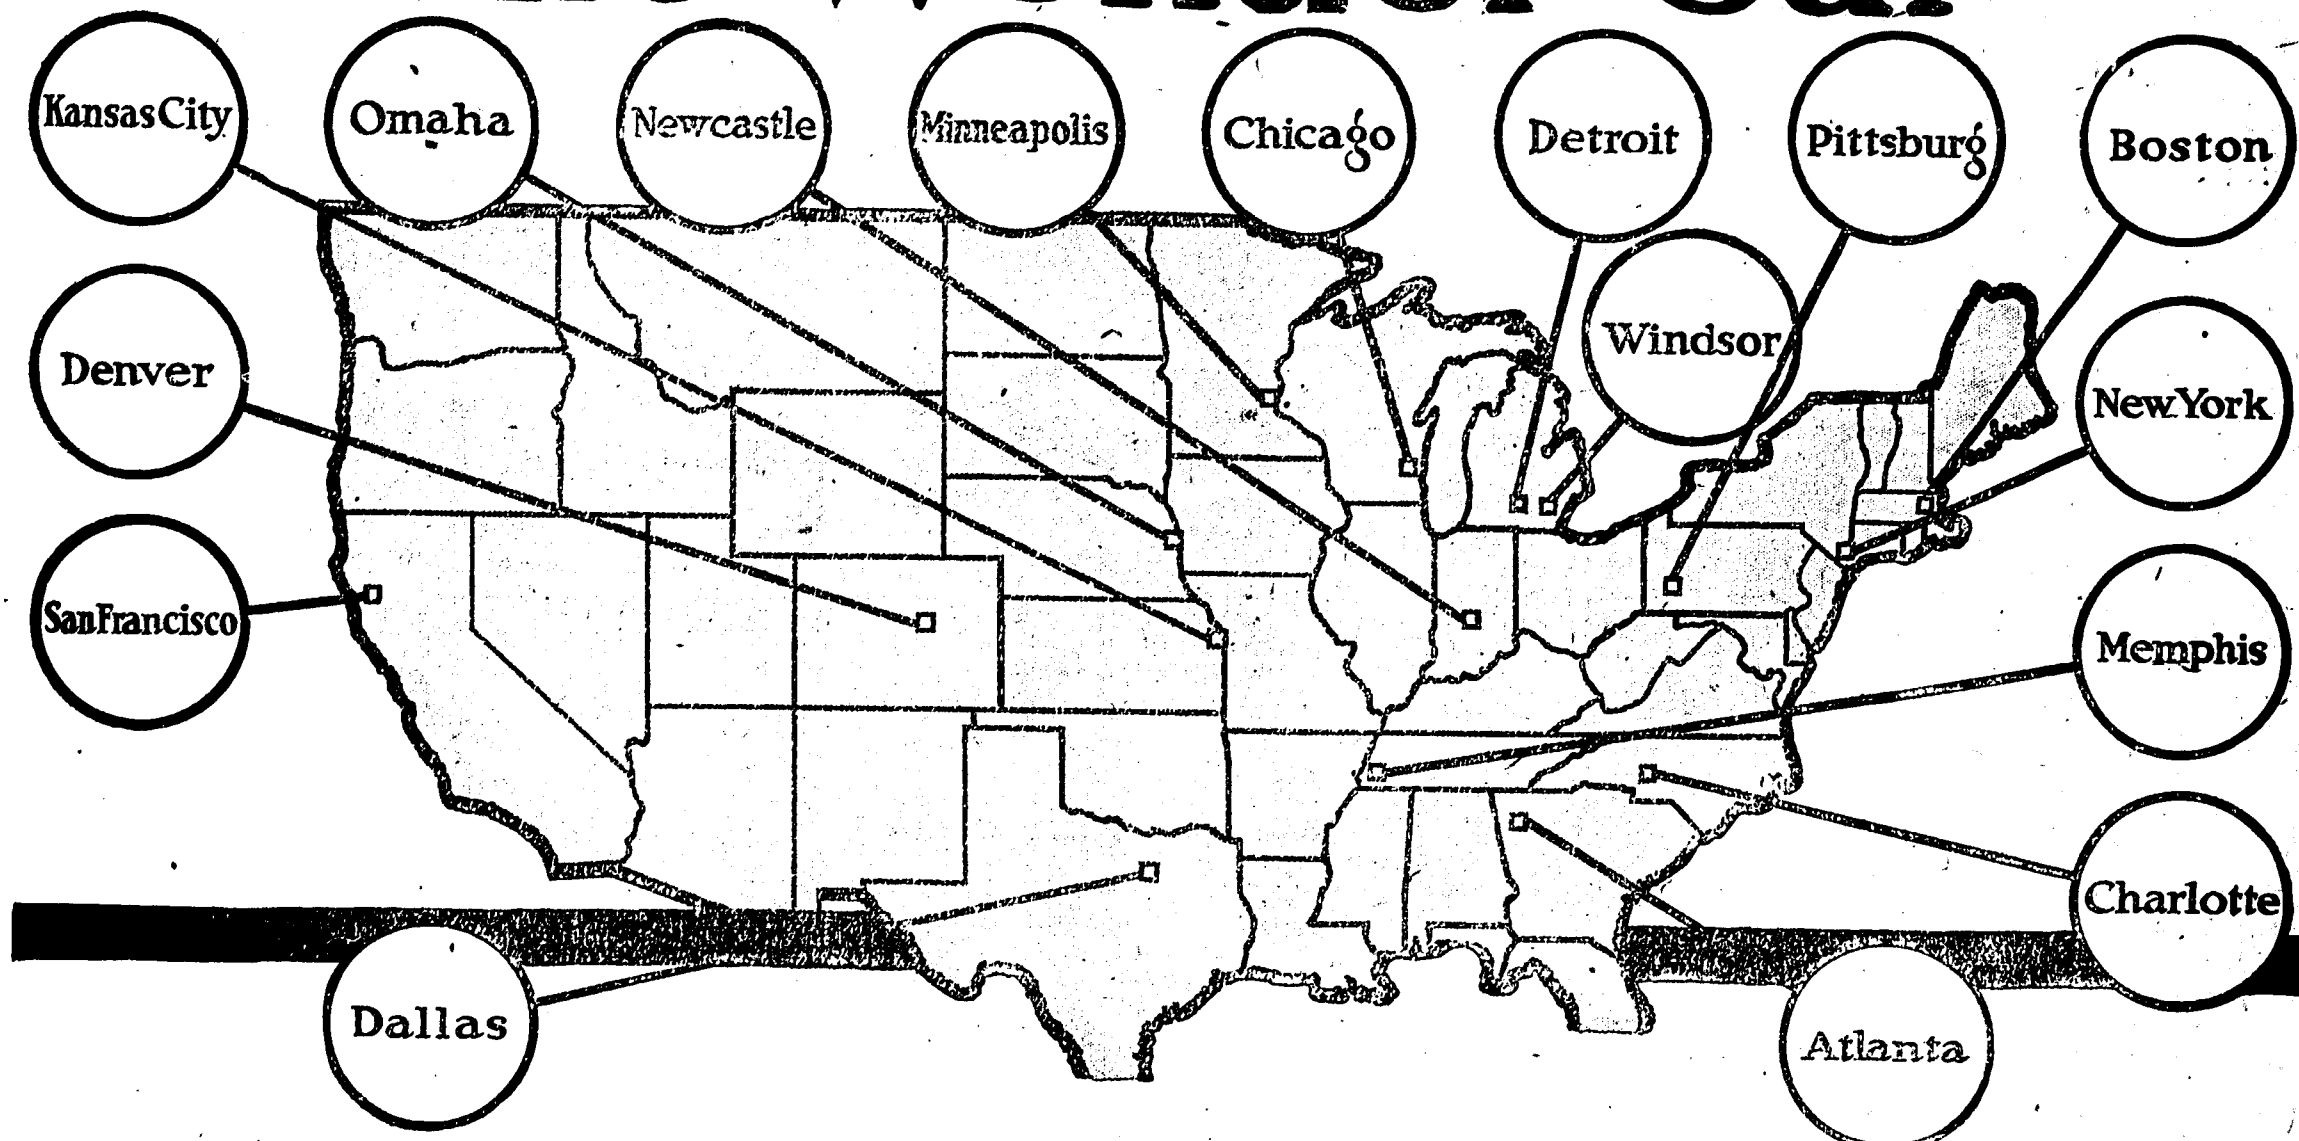

For the past two weeks loads of automobiles have been arriving steadily over the boulevards, bent upon seeing one of the most remarkable sights in Southern California, which is forty acres of oranges entirely surrounded on four sides with hundreds of varieties of roses with millions of blossoms. The rains of the past week caused the blossoms to suffer somewhat, but the hedges are still very beautiful.

The ranch was recently written up as one of the attractions of Southern California, and the story went out on the Associated Press wire to the East. Mr. Griffiths has received several letters from easterners, inquiring about rose planting and rose varieties. The ranch has also been the subject of inquiries to the forestry commission of Los Angeles county and to the 1915 floral committee.

Maxwell

"The Wonder Car"

16 Great Service Branches—54 Maxwell District Offices—More than 2,000 Maxwell Dealers are always at the Service of Those Who Drive Maxwell Cars

When you buy an automobile you buy two kinds of service. First:—The service given and guaranteed by the car itself. Second:—The service given by the maker and the dealer while the car is in use.

The service the Maxwell car gives is known. 38,000 satisfied Maxwell owners have given the car the rough and tumble acid test of fully eighteen months' service. The Maxwell has shown that it is able to stand up under the severest use. In cities, over country roads, through mud and sand and up the steepest mountains, the 1915 Maxwell has made good for 38,000 owners.

THE SERVICE THAT THE MAXWELL MOTOR COMPANY GIVES

The service that the Maxwell car gives cannot be questioned. Any automobile owner from time to time requires service from the maker of the car he drives. He sometimes needs new parts, adjustments, etc.

16 GREAT MAXWELL SERVICE BRANCHES

The Maxwell Motor Company takes care of Maxwell owners by maintaining 16 great Maxwell Service Branches. These branches are in great cities which have been selected in such a manner as to thoroughly cover the United States. They can deliver parts to any Maxwell dealer or Maxwell owner within a few hours.

54 MAXWELL DISTRICT OFFICES

54 Maxwell District Offices are maintained in leading cities. This means 54 District Managers, each with a corps of assistants. A great big part of the work of this army of skilled men is to see that Maxwell dealers give real Maxwell service to Maxwell owners.

MORE THAN 2,000 MAXWELL DEALERS ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE

Each of the Maxwell dealers in the United States and Canada is an automobile expert. Anyone of them stands ready at all times to give advice and assistance to any Maxwell owner. You can tour all of the United States and Canada and should your car require the attention of an expert you will find a Maxwell dealer near at hand. If you need a replacement part, and the dealer does not have it in stock, he can get it for you from the nearest Maxwell branch within a few hours.

Maxwell owners never have their cars out of service for days or weeks at a time waiting for replacement parts.

The $695 Maxwell "Wonder Car" is the greatest real automobile value ever offered. The service that the Maxwell Motor Company gives is not surpassed by the service given by any other automobile manufacturing organization in the world.

Read This List of Expensive Features. The 1915 Maxwell Has These Features And Many Others.

Attractive Streamline Body

Pure streamline body; graceful crown fenders, with all rivets concealed. All the grace, style and "snap" that you will find in any of the highest priced cars.

A High-Tension Magneto

Nearly all the high priced cars have high tension magnetos. A high tension magneto gives positive ignition. The Simms magneto, with which the Maxwell is equipped, is recognized as one of the best magnetos made.

Left Side Drive—Central Control!

Left side steer with gear shifting levers in center of driving compartment—center control—has been accepted by leading makers of expensive automobiles as the safest and most comfortable for the driver; that is why the Maxwell has it. The Maxwell is so easy to drive and control that a child can handle it.

Three-Speed Sliding Gear Transmission

All high priced cars have a sliding gear transmission. It is costly to make, but it is the best. If the motor has the power, sliding gears will pull the car out of any mud or sand. The Maxwell has a three-speed selective sliding gear transmission because Maxwell engineers do not consider any other type to be worthy of the Maxwell car.

Double-Shell Radiator with Shock Absorbing Device

The Maxwell radiator is of handsome design, gracefully curved, and it is built to be trouble proof. It is the expensive double shell type and has ample cooling capacity. The radiator is mounted to the frame by means of a shock absorbing device on each side, which relieves the radiator of all twists and distortions of the frame, caused by roughness of the road. The shock absorbing device also minimizes the possibility of radiator leaks.

The Roomy Full 5-Passenger Body

The 1915 Maxwell has a full grown 5-passenger body. The front seat is adjustable, you can move it three inches forward or backward. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No cramped legs for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—so fit no one.

Low "Up-keep" Carburetor

The carburetor used on the Maxwell was especially designed for it after long and severe tests under every conceivable condition. Economy tours conducted by hundreds of dealers and owners in different sections of the country have proved its efficiency, its quick response to throttle and its extremely low consumption of gasoline. It has been termed the "low up-keep" carburetor.

Irreversible Steering Gear

The greatest margin of safety has been provided in the steering gear of the 1915 Maxwell. The Maxwell irreversible steering mechanism is of the expensive worm-and-gear type and its superiority over every other type lies in its many adjustments. At no time is more than a fourth of the bearing surface of the gear which operates the worm in use. When needed, a new bearing surface may be had by adjusting the gear a quarter of a turn. In short, the Maxwell steering gear has four times the adjustment of any other kind.

Heavy Car Comfort

What surprises most people is the smooth, buoyant riding qualities of the Maxwell. The spring suspension of the 1915 Maxwell is the same costly combination of long semi-elliptical front springs and the three-quarter elliptical rear springs that is used on most heavy weight, high priced cars. The Maxwell offers you every essential of the highest priced machines at a fifth of their cost.

One Size of Tire—Anti-Skids on Rear

The Maxwell car is one of the easiest cars in the world on tires. Maxwell owners carry but one spare tire and but one size of spare tubes. Economical 30 inch x 3 1/2 inch tires are used all around. A famous make of anti-skid tires are supplied on rear wheels.

A Dependable Electric Starter

For $55 extra, you can have your Maxwell delivered equipped with the famous Simms-Huff electric starter. This starter is efficient, trouble proof and easily operated.

And the Maxwell is completely equipped from the clear vision, ventilating windshield at the front to the spare tire carrier at the rear.

The Maxwell Company's Guarantee of Service to Maxwell Owners

No other automobile is backed by a more reliable service than that guaranteed every Maxwell owner. More than 2,000 Maxwell dealers—in every part of this country—are always ready to give expert advice, to make adjustments, and to supply new parts at reasonable prices.

This splendid Maxwell dealer service organization is perfected and completed by the chain of Maxwell owned and Maxwell operated Service Branches. Sixteen great Maxwell Service Stations are so located throughout the country that a Maxwell dealer can supply any part for an owner within a few hours if not in his stock. Maxwell Service is one of the great advantages enjoyed by Maxwell owners.

Order a Maxwell from us now, and when you want it delivered, we will give you your car—not an excuse on delivery day

Five courts, each different in their design, adjoin the great palaces where the industries of the world are placed. These courts are the Court of the Universe, Court of Abundance, Court of the Four Seasons, Court of Palms, and Court of Flowers.

The great palaces which house the exhibits from every corner of the globe are the largest ever erected for exhibition purposes. The Palace of Machinery, one of the largest wooden buildings in the world, is nine hundred and sixty-eight feet long by six hundred and sixty-eight feet wide.

The other palaces are the Palace of Fine Arts, Palace of Liberal Arts, Palace of Varied Industries, Palace of Horticulture, Palace of Food Products, Palace of Education, Palace of Manufacturers, Palace of Transportation, Palace of Mines, and Palace of Agriculture. Festival Hall, where the great musical artists of the world are heard in concert, is designed after the French theater style.

The lighting effects, which have already proved one of the features of the exposition, represents the last word in modern electricity. For the first time in the history of the world, an indirect system has been used. By the new system a soft restful light pervades the courts at night, revealing in wonderful clearness the facades of the palaces. The battery of forty-eight searchlights on the Marina project powerful rays of light over the buildings, while the giant scintillator weaves auroras of ever-changing color during the period of illumination every evening.

In the various pavilions of the South American countries participating at the exposition are valuable exhibits showing the wealth and scope of the countries' resources. Minerals, wool, silver, gold, copper and other products make an interesting exhibit for the visitor to look at.

It is particularly appropriate that an exposition held in California should take especial pains with its horticultural and floricultural section. The state of "sunshine, fruits and flowers" in consequence has a palace of horticulture that experts declare the superior of any similar conservatory at any previous world's exposition. In this department are many notable exhibits showing the range of contemporaneous horticultural activities. The advance made in economic horticulture during the past decade is realistically and elaborately shown in the model cannery. Practically the entire industry of sanitary fruit canning has been developed in the past decade, the process shown in the model cannery being absolutely revolutionary compared with the methods of ten years ago. Another tremendous advance is in the science of predaceous insects; setting one bug to kill the other. This is a field of vast importance in horticulture that has been developed during the past decade. In the work of seeking out these predaceous bugs California probably leads the world.

Horticulturists will also be interested in the newer phases of plant hybridization resulting in new families of plant life. In this section will be Elter's strawberries, which blossom and fruit in the air, having a thick, velvety leaf which drops to the ground, keeping the soil protected and moist. Mendelin's theory of seed selection is another step toward the ideal in horticulture. This theory in practice is rather like the principle of eugenics applied to plants. Only strong, healthy seeds are used in planting. In connection with Mendelin's theory, Prof. and Mrs. Cockerell of the University of Colorado show by actual demonstration how they arrive at their new red sunflower, the seeds of which are sound value as poultry food.

But it is in the department of liberal arts where are found those advances that afford the most dramatic appeal to the popular mind. The wireless telegraph and telephone are classified among the exhibits of the Palace of Liberal Arts, the acousticon, the diagraph, and the telegraphone. In this palace, at the both of the Bell Telephone Company, one may sit and listen to operators talking to New York over the newly perfected long distance telephones. The price is twenty dollars a minute as yet, so the majority of visitors prefer to listen to someone else.

The great travel movement every year from South America is toward Europe, where hundreds of thousands of South Americans go for trade and pleasure. This year, and especially since the outbreak of the great war, this travel is toward California and the San Francisco exposition. South America is participating in the exposition upon a scale never before dreamed of, and it is at the exposition that manufacturer and producer are today meeting the importer and buyer from America's sister nations to the south. For these reasons it was commercially imperative that the southern countries be properly represented at the exposition, and the manner in which they responded to the invitation leaves nothing to be desired.

For the first time color photography is made the subject of a display at an international exposition. After fifteen years of work and the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars the Eastman laboratories have finally succeeded in photographing directly in color and in printing color negatives from color plates. Thus far, the process has been applied to glass plates only and not to films. This feature of the liberal arts exhibit is of wide appeal and is the subject of a beautiful and artistically arranged booth.

The most vivid method of impressing upon the visitor to the exposition the value and variety of the industries of South America, their importance and their opportunities for the investor, is found in the use of moving pictures. Thousands upon thousands of persons from all parts of the earth are attending these demonstrations and the result is certain to be gratifying to South America.

Make Your Own Pastry Flour

A SIMPLE METHOD OF INSURING DELICIOUS PASTRY

A prime requisite in the preparation of satisfactory pastry is a perfect flour. It is not generally known that the housewife can prepare her own pastry flour by mixing cornstarch with regular bread flour in the proportion of one part of cornstarch to from three to five parts of flour—which can be regulated by the housewife herself according to the amount of gluten in the bread flour she is using. This varies very materially in different parts of the country, according to whether winter or spring wheat flour is used—and even these flours vary.

The addition of the cornstarch to wheat flour reduces the amount of gluten, and makes a soft, fine texture eliminating the tendency to toughness in cake making, etc., where straight wheat flour is used.

In order to insure the best possible flour, however, it naturally follows that the best cornstarch obtainable should be used. Many thousands of successful cooks in all parts of the country are using Kingsford's Cornstarch in this manner with the most satisfactory results.

No one can realize all the possibilities in good cooking without a thorough knowledge of the use of cornstarch. A little booklet on the subject has been gotten up by the manufacturers of Kingsford's Cornstarch. Ask your grocer for one of these booklets today and try some of its numerous recipes—but be sure it's Kingsford's.

PRACTICAL USES FOR SOUR OR BITTER ORANGE.

Washington, May 5.—Specialists of the Bureau of Chemistry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in the course of experiments, have observed that the hitherto useless fruit of the sour or bitter orange can be made to yield a highly palatable jelly which promises to afford use for a large amount of this wasted fruit. This fruit is too bitter to be eaten raw. The chemists, however, found that the pulp or interior of this orange, with the unusually bitter skin removed and with the addition of twice as much sugar, would jelly into an amber-colored product not quite so bitter as bitter orange marmalade but having some of the characteristic flavors of this conserve.

The method of making the jelly is described as follows:

Take all of the pulp of the orange, including the seeds. Add to it twice its volume of water and boil it until the pulp falls to pieces. Strain the mixture through a cotton or canton flannel jelly bag and add to the strained juice twice as much sugar by weight as there was original fruit pulp. Boil down the mixture until it reaches the "jell point." Put while boiling hot into clean glasses and seal the same as is the practice with other jellies.

Baldwin Park Apiaries In Class By Themselves

April 12, 1915.
Mr. Henry Ames, Baldwin Park, Cal.
My dear Mr. Ames: Having this day, in company with my deputy, Mr. Vandruuff of Pomona, inspected both your home apiary and out-yard of 94 colonies, almost 300 in all, it gives me pleasure to tell you that your apiaries are in a class by themselves. Clean from start to finish. Neither American or European foul-brood to be found. And I beg lief to state that in freedom from any contagious or infectious disease they are absolutely perfect. In number of bees to the colony and general perfect condition they are the finest in two months' daily inspections so far this season. I could wish nothing better for the bee-keepers of our county than that all the apiaries were like your own.

Truly,
GEO. B. SELLEM,
County bee inspector, Los Angeles County.

SPANISH ORANGE CROP DAMAGED BY FROST

Consular report from Valencia: Monthly reports from the office on the condition and prospects of the Valencia orange crop have repeatedly stated that, barring unforeseen events, the 1914 yield would be the largest and best in the region's history. With the first of February, 1915, come and gone, and only two or three weeks of winter weather to look forward to, and with the predictions as to volume and quality fully verified up to that date, it looked as though all fear of losses from natural causes was past. Even the anticipated heavy losses due to the war had partially failed of realization, notwithstanding market conditions in England after the Christmas holidays were causing positive losses.

But during the first week of February the unexpected occurred. The second consecutive orange crop was badly nipped by frost, and the effects, though not completely known at the time of writing, will nearly, if not quite, equal the damage caused by a similar visitation in January, 1914. The trade press mentioned the frost in a casual way at the time it occurred, but in the midst of worry and speculation as to the extent and duration of the debacle in the English markets its importance was overlooked.

As stated, the full extent of the damage is not known; but after careful investigation, estimates place it at 1,500,000 cases (about 165 pounds each) Since approximately two-thirds of the 1914 crop available for export, or 5,000,000 cases more or less, still remained on hand just prior to the freeze, the loss thus amounted to about 30 per cent.

While there is some disposition to look complacently on the sudden destruction of a large part of the surplus fruit in a season beset with so many difficulties, it is more generally thought that the freeze will have the effect of creating more pronounced uncertainties in market conditions during the remainder of the season. This would not be so if all the frosted fruit could be eliminated at once. But brokers say this is never done and that a certain amount is sure to be shipped, despite the best precautions; and a few infected orchards will soon contaminate an entire package. This was proved last year when cargoes reached destination and were thrown on the market in eight to ten days from the time of embarkation.

This year, under war conditions, the transit is much longer and generally vessels are compelled to await their turn for an unloading berth. In one case the elapsed time between the sailing and unloading dates was nearly six weeks. This was exceptional, but all vessels require from two to four times longer than usual to arrive and discharge. Already complaints are being received that oranges shipped in perfectly sound condition arrive in bad shape from this cause. At Liverpool fruit brokers are planning to use docking facilities across the river a mile or more from the usual discharging berths where fruit auctions are customarily held.

Humphrey J. Coughlin

502 Hollingsworth Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

The Pacific Coast Packer, in its last issue, says of Mr. Coughlin:

HUMPHREY J. COUGHLIN OF LOS ANGELES AND RIVERSIDE, CAL.

Mr. Coughlin has been connected with the fruit business practically all of his life in the East. During the past 15 years he spent 12 years as an active member of the North Adams Beef and Produce Company of North Adams, Mass., and for the past three years he has been in California shipping citrus fruits. Mr. Coughlin says he has a method of his own. Whatever it is, it has made him very popular among the trade throughout the country and especially among the growers in California. Few men have come out of the East and established themselves in so short a time as Mr. Coughlin has done in the great citrus belt of the state.
